SKILLS & EXPERIENCE

Liz Lefebvre began in the field of Behavior Analysis as a Precision Teacher in 2003. Liz has a passion for helping children access the highest quality behavioral and educational services. Her broad clinical experience includes 15 years of training and practice ranging across a variety of areas including Precision Teaching, Direct Instruction, instructional design, early intervention, intervention in challenging behavior, and curriculum development and modification. This experience informs her ability to develop meaningful and appropriate treatment plans, conduct intensive skill and data analysis, and ensure her clients learn to the best of their ability.

Liz has also successfully transitioned larger organizations from traditional ABA models to Precision Teaching ABA models, improving their quality of service and outcomes for clients. Liz's expertise in development of training systems and models, implementation of training systems, and consulting in a variety of contexts including schools, homes, and other private organizations provides her with a wide range of practice.

POSITIONS & CERTIFICATIONS

She is a Board Certified Behavior Analyst and currently holds a License in Behavior Analysis in the state of Washington. Liz currently owns a private clinical practice - Accelerate Learning Specialists International - with locations in Seattle, WA and Hong Kong and co-founded Octave Innovation, an organization dedicated to improving skill sets of behavior analysts, teachers, and instructional designers. Liz also served as the Vice President of Programs for the Standard Celeration Society in 2018 and currently sits on the Board of Directors for the Standard Celeration Society.
